A brief summary of the need for Inventories

The provision of inventories is currently a fragmented and uncontrolled business in the UK with a disparate quality and range of products. There are currently no nationally recognized standards or qualifications for inventory providers.

The need to regularize and improve the Inventory supply chain is coming under close scrutiny as the Government moves further towards statutory regulation of the lettings industry, this includes a Government review of the sector (the Rugg Review) during 2008 which concluded that the UK residential lettings industry would benefit from adopting a system of Accreditation or Licensing of key practices including inventory supply.

From 6 April 2007, the Government made it compulsory for those receiving tenancy deposits in England and Wales to join a scheme that safeguards deposits for the duration of the tenancy and offers resolution procedures should disputes arise, an approved Tenancy Deposit Scheme (TDS).

Where there is a dispute about allocation of the deposit at the end of the tenancy that cannot be resolved between the parties, the TDS scheme refers the dispute to its dispute resolution service. An independent adjudicator will examine the facts and determine how the deposit should be allocated.

Inventories of the condition of the building and contents at the beginning and end of a tenancy are central to this process.

The Inventory-Portal's Licensed Inventory Scheme (LIS) is a voluntary, national system for the training and ongoing Quality Management, Audit and Regulation of its licensed inventory providers.

The UK lettings market

There were approximately 2.1 million Assured, Shorthold Tenancies (ASTs) in England in 2007 (source DCLG survey of English housing). The average length of a residential tenancy is currently approximately 14-16 months. Well over 1 million of these tenancies are managed by a structured industry of Letting Agents or Corporate Landlords.

Inventory Providers may be instructed to carry out one or all of the following at different stages of these tenancies:

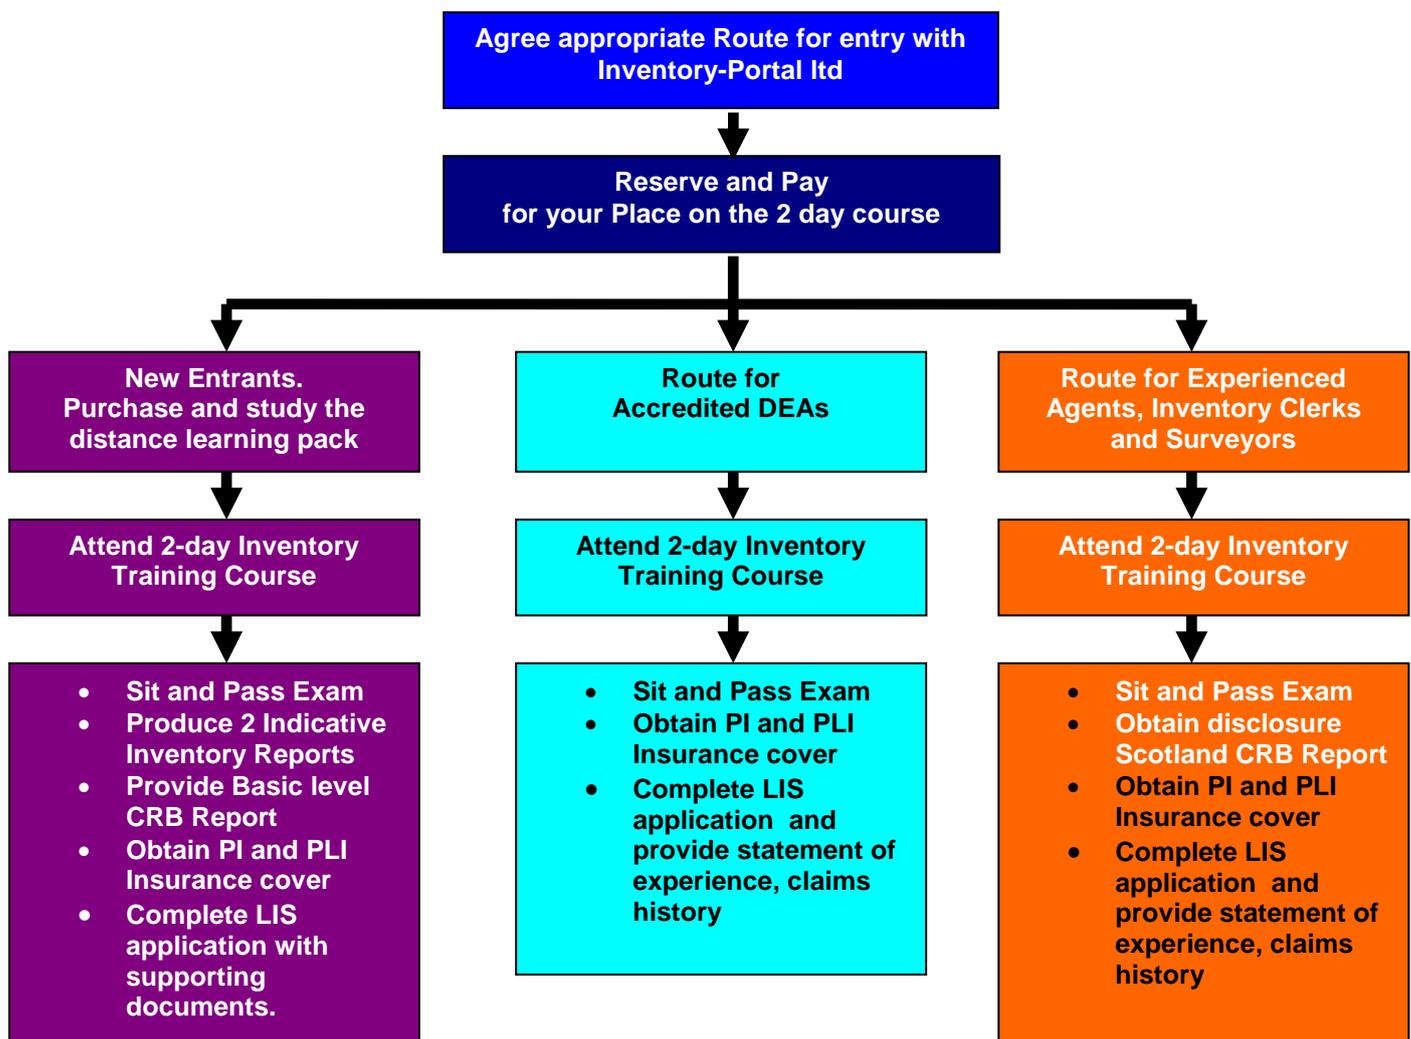

- Ingoing Inventory
- Check-in
- Outgoing Inventory
- Check-out
- Interim Visits

Guidance tips to help you understand your Training programme

The Inventory-Portal Ltd's (IPL) Inventory Provider Training Programme and e-Tech Ltd's SMART-inventory software has been created to qualify and equip individuals to become Licensed Inventory Scheme (LIS) members and to undertake and produce quality-assured, residential Inventories for the UK lettings Market.

Whether you are a qualified and accredited Domestic Energy Assessor (DEA), a RICS chartered surveyor or someone with experience in the Inventory or lettings market, becoming a Licensed Inventory Scheme (LIS) Member with Inventory-Portal Ltd (IPL) is a very straightforward process and will take only a matter of a few weeks.

New entrants or less experienced applicants will need to undertake additional training in the form of the Inventory-Portal, Distance Learning programme before starting the 2-day Inventory Provider Training programme. A separate prospectus is available for this New Entrant Package.

What happens once you have gained the Award?

All successful training course graduates are entitled to use the SMART-inventory software to produce SMART-inventory Reports. You will need to acquire the correct XTC6500 PDA device onto which the SMART-inventory software will be loaded free of charge by e-Tech Ltd. e-Tech Ltd are market leaders in PDA driven surveying software applications including SMART-epc and SMART-floor plan systems.

You will need to enter into a software contract with e-Tech Ltd to use the SMART-inventory software and pay the report generation click-charges to e-Tech Ltd of £5.50+vat, per report (a minimum monthly click charges of £10 per month +vat exist to maintain this software license).

Optional Membership of the Licensed Inventory Scheme (LIS)

Once you have passed Training and exam you will be able to join the optional, voluntary, Licensed Inventory Scheme (LIS) and use the “licensed” logo on your sales materials. Members of LIS are regularly audited as part of our Members’ Quality Assurance Regime and are supported with regular business development advice, mentoring and Inventory-Portal Licensed branded Marketing materials.

To join LIS you must have attended and passed training and examination with inventory-portal Ltd and supply an in-date CRB check (Disclosure Scotland) and to hold a current Professional Indemnity and General Liability Insurance Policy.

Where will the work come from?

Inventory-Portal Ltd aims to offer LIS Members the opportunity to carry out work for a panel managed or sub-contracted panel of our Licensed Members, subject to the availability of these instructions and the adequate national coverage of our members.

In the meantime our Members are encouraged and assisted to develop their local market by canvassing letting agents, showing the sample SMART-inventory Report and promoting the benefits of a Licensed Inventory Scheme Member as a Trained, Security-Checked and Quality Assured Professional, able to supply a standardized, photo-embedded report electronically, to a consistently high Standard.

Inventory-Portal Ltd will actively promote the unique benefits of the LIS Inventory Providers and the SMART-inventory Report (SIR) centrally to all national and regional letting agents and to the wider market via promotional events and our website www.inventory-portal.co.uk

Once a reliable national or regional network of Licensed Members has been established Inventory-Portal Ltd will attempt to secure Clients to outsource their inventory supply chain. This work will be passed out to LIS members who have chosen to join our portal and agree our contract terms. We will take a modest percentage of the gross fee per report as our commission on all such instructions.

As a Licensed Member, you are expected to source your own work, at your own price, from your own clients. The LIS members’ support services will provide you with marketing advice and promotional Inventory-Portal branded materials to help you win this business from your local letting agents and landlords in your area.
